ACADEMIC SPOTLIGHT

Forensic Chemistry

- Working hands-on with a research mentor to gain skills for future forensic career
- Networking with professors and those at research conferences
- Small student-to-professor ratio in classes that ensures you are receiving a good, supported education
- One of the top forensic chemistry programs in the state of Illinois, including a course on the method of analysis known as mass spectrometry, which is an integral part of forensic science lab work
- Professors that run and oversee the program are encouraging, thorough, and empathetic
- Integrated Masters program, also known as the Bridge program, in which students can enroll in the first year of a General Chemistry Masters Program during the last year of the Forensic Chemistry Bachelor's program
